Our School

Ault Academy, our on-campus school, is accredited by the Advance Ed. (SACS), Georgia Accreditation Commission and approved by the Georgia Department of Education. Twin Cedars Youth and Family Services Inc., Bradfield Center, recognizes that 100% of the students who are admitted to our program are a unique population of individuals with specific psychotherapeutic, psychoeducational, and academic needs. A significant number of students enter our program with records indicating they are below grade level. In the Ault Academy setting, students are evaluated upon admission with the Wide Range Achievement test. The teachers utilize test information to determine current level of ability and develop lesson plans in accordance with expectations for each student's grade level. Supplemental resources are used to help meet each student's needs when his ability level is below (or above) grade level. Common Core Georgia Performance Standards serve as a guide for all teachers' lesson plans. These standards are downloaded from the website and used by teachers in writing objectives for daily lesson plans.

Partners in Education (PIE)

Ault Academy is excited about support from all of our PIES in the past decade, business and education partnerships have become vital components in thousands of school districts across the nation, working together to strengthen the educational process through collaborative relationships. A partnership is a mutually supportive arrangement between business and a school or school district, in which partners commit to specific goals and activities intended to enhance educational opportunities to benefit students. Each of our PIE partners are unique because it is based on the needs of the school and the resources the PIE can offer. The common thread is a commitment to students and learning.
